A kite for two

Read the story. Use what the friends do and say in your answers.

Nia held the kite high. Max ran with the reel, but the kite tipped into the grass. “Look at the ribbon on that fence,” said Nia. It pointed toward the pond. They turned around so Max could run into the wind, away from the pond. This time the kite lifted. Nia let go. The red diamond climbed above the fence, and Max slowly let out more string.

What clue helped Nia work out which way the wind blew?

What did the friends change for their second try?

How can you tell the second try worked?